Captain Velocity, aka Aaron Smallwood, and his sidekick, Beth Boyd, work together to make Velocity a better place

Sara Collins contemplates stealing another ring from Castle's Jewellery, while the owner isn't looking.

Sabrina Reed and Connie Mullins smile to the customers, "We feel like chicken tonight!"

Swab the Deck

For many students at PHS, the last bell of the day signals the end of school. However, it also represents the beginning of the work day for others. Some travel to shops, some to cash registers, and others to restaurants. Students gained responsibility, maturity, and leadership skills on the job. Besides working many hours a week, they also had to study to maintain their grades and still have time for a social life.

Senior Connie Mullins shared her personal experience. "I found out a long time ago that you can accomplish anything you want if you put your mind to it. I wondered if I was going to be able to maintain good grades, hold down a job, and play basketball, but I discovered that I could do it."

It seemed to be a way of life for many students to juggle a hectic schedule. But it wasn't an impossible task. Utilizing their time wisely was the key to accomplishing this daunting task.

"Paper or plastic?" Chris Richards asks as he works yet another grueling shift at Food City.

Justin and Josh Shofner enjoy a little down time after their try out for team Jeopardy.

"I warned you, Staci, stay out of my letters to Brad Pruitt!" Traci warns her twin.

"Girls, I know you're pretty tough, but someone has to sit in the back!" Psycho Sarah Hickman tells Kim and Elizabeth.

"How many times do I have to tell you, Mary Kate, you'll never be as beautiful as me!" Heather McGuire exclaims.

Rebecca and Sarah Deskins prove to their brother Matt that girls kick butt!

Sibling Rivalry

Walking the hallways of Pikeville High School offered a certain freedom from the ever present bind of mom and dad. Most students never thought that they would find out about that smoking incident in the bathroom during lunch.

As you sat in your room, punishment for the detention you had served, you recalled the incident, positive that no one had seen. Suddenly you remembered the figure you noticed scurrying from the scene of the crime. Once again the brat had prevailed in making your life miserable.

Some of them never knew when their siblings would turn the corner, maintaining notes for serious blackmail. It seemed as if they could never get by with anything.

"Angela, you washed the dog last Saturday. It's my turn to earn some money!" yells Crystal Kanney.

Student Life

Jessica Sykes could care less about a red convertible; she has her dream man Andy Davis to look at Bethany Tillier can persuade Jay King to do anything, even if it is giving up eating at Peking for Shoney's.

Michael Pruitt asks Heather McGuire, "When can we quit taking these cheasy pictures?"

Bethany Branham loves to dine with Chad Newsome, even if it is in the school cafeteria.

Stephen Hatfield and Sarah Hickman look as if they just stepped off the pages of GQ and Cosmo.

"Where should we go after school?" Sabrina Reed asks her steady, Craig Anderson. He replies, "Anywhere, as long as I'm with you."

The Love Boat

Dating was a journey that all students at PHS eagerly embarked on. Regardless they played the field or dated steady, the objective was to have fun.

Students always enjoyed listening to the latest dating gossip: who broke up with who, and who were the newest people added to the picture. This twisted tangle of relationships was an everyday ordeal for some PHS students, and commitment was not in their vocabulary.

Many students enjoyed the exclusive dating scene. Rather than being typically "married," PHS couples were always active; regardless if they were eating at Jerry's, going to the movies, or cheering their Panthers to victory.

Even though students had to deal with busy schedules, they always made time for that special someone (or special someones) in their lives.

Kristin Justice practices for her future occupation as a model for "Hot Rods, Hot Babes" magazine.

"But it's my turn to steer, Heather!" cries an aggravated Ashlie Cook. "Uh, Ashlie, we're not even in the water," says a confused Heather McGuire. (below)

(upper right) Tyler Friend and Ben Carter aren't afraid to flirt with all of the cute girls that go by, unlike Steven Justice, Brad Hartsock, and Jamie McGee who would rather watch and learn.

(lower right) Ashlie Sykes flashes her million-dollar smile as she practices for her role in the next Wendy's commercial.

Chip Roop and Brad Branham set out on another voyage to wreak havoc on unsuspecting victims with their infamous practical jokes.

"Come on guys, tell me how to get this thing out of park!" pleads a bewildered Jessica Childers.

Cruisin' in the Right Direction

It would be easily agreed by students at PHS that there was very little to do around the grand city of Pikeville, especially on the weekends.

The easiest solution for the highly contagious, end-of-the-week cabin fever was to hop into cars, or other modes of transportation, and GO!

Whether it was cruising around town on Friday and Saturday nights or taking a weekend at the lake, students at PHS always found a way to feel the wind in their hair, then their frustrations melted away!

Anybody could testify that when a PHS student was behind the wheel, there could never be a dull moment!

Kelli Kerr tries to console her friends, Deanna Clevinger and Elizabeth Lee, as they cringe at the thought of meeting their new substitute teacher.

"See, Whitney, I told you $E=MC^2$," points out Sarah Beth Tackett to a stressed out Whitney Lucas.

Ship Mates

Throughout the high school voyage, one treasure was discovered by many. It was one of great value and worth. This prized possession was friendship.

At PHS, friends were not hard to come by. Side by side, they faced the terrors of the first day of school, tests, and the intimidation of teachers and "the seniors." During all this stress and studying, "ship mates" continued to encourage and inspire one another.

Despite the hectic times, there were just as many memorable occasions. Friends could often be found dancing the night away at homecoming or prom, cheering the Panthers on to victory, or crowding into a booth at Jerry's Restaurant. These were the times to kick back, relax, and enjoy each other's company.

Throughout their journey across the open seas, the one thing that would last through eternity was the bond of those friendships formed at PHS.

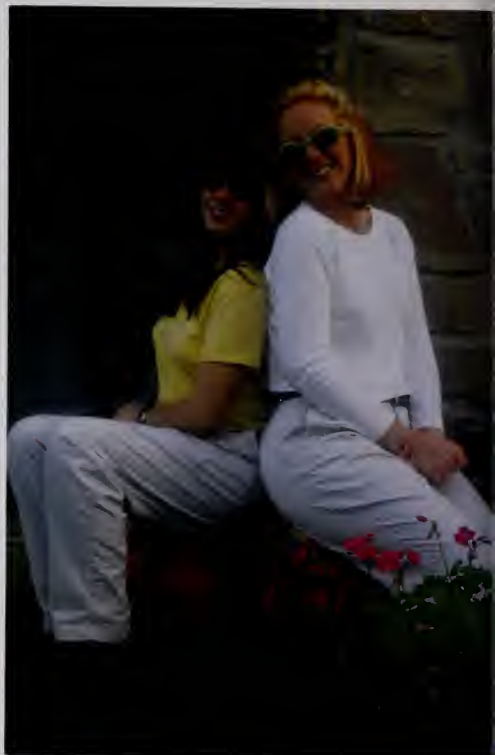

"Hey, Suba! You'll like this one. It has pictures in it!" explains Rebecca Deskins to Suba Modur.

Janice Rueson and Theresa Arias try to hold back their drool as they boy watch in the commons area.

Lisa Pinson, Courtney Lowe, and Kitty Branham are the "Three Stooges" of PHS

Adam Stanley, Tyler Webb, and Aaron Stanley make up the Pauley Addition Neighborhood Watch Patrol.

Ricky Gibson watches James Hall, "live and unplugged."

Ashlie Cook, Staci West, Tiffany Ratliff, Whitney Lucas, and Megan Thacker have decided to "strike a pose."

Shady Ladies & Boys With Toys

Although the sun wasn't always shining, the faces of PHS students were. On those faces came many styles, shapes, and colors of sunglasses. From cat eye to pilot, from turtle shell to square frames, they were found on all ladies' faces. Sunglasses were worn for many reasons- "looking cool," modeling in fashion, or hiding their hair back. Shades were also a way of concealing a bad day, or a no make-up face.

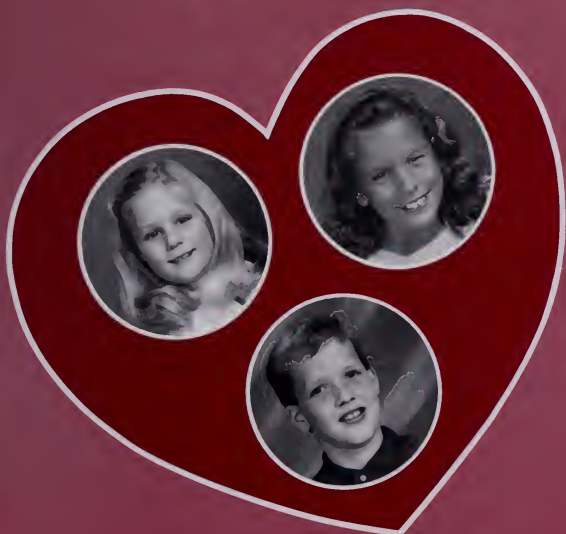

The boys, on the other hand, were too busy playing with their toys to worry about "looking cool." Guys enjoyed many interests and hobbies. They hunted, fished, roller bladed, and worked on cars, trucks, or motorcycles. Getting away from people and stress were reasons the boys enjoyed these activities.

The many activities provided escape from the stress of student life. They gave students a chance to kick back, relax, and have fun.

Maiden Voyage

Once upon a time in a place called PES, (before drivers license, semester exams, and car dates) the class of 1997 played their days away in the elementary school's "circle of love." The only worries they faced were being run over by a row of troll boys, benched by the teacher, or dumped by the person they were "going with."

Most of recess was spent walking down the long, romantic path to the flagpole where they would be "united in marriage." Sometimes it only took two play periods for the couple to end up at the brick wall to receive their divorce. The lucky duo to remain "married" on the weekend could be found at a nearby Sock Hop, dancing until 8:00pm in their poodle skirts with the Fonze of their dreams. All in all, the class of 1997 looked back fondly on their past loves and childhood memories.

School-to-Work

The Real World

PHS seniors received valuable insight into the work force last year by a new program called School-to-Work. The purpose of the program was to give students an idea of what their anticipated career choice was actually like.

Local businessmen and women became mentors to a select group of seniors. Worksites included Pikeville Methodist Hospital, Wayne Supply, Cornerstone Family Center, and the Pike County Tourism department. The worksites were excited about the idea, and were eager to give students the opportunity to see what life really was like in the real world.

Mrs. Laverne Dye, sponsor and coordinator of the group, reflected back on the year saying, "Overall, it has been a success. The students were faced with many challenges and exceeded all expectations. This fine group of seniors made the adjustment from high school to the work force easily, making me very proud."

(above) School-to-Work participants include: Nicole Trimble, Lenny Keene, Aaron Smallwood, David Ferguson, Ami Bevins, Stacy Rose, Beka Norman, April Huffman, Brandon Robinette, Amy Staten, Laura Ford, Jill Bartley, Robert So, Sabrina Reed, Derek Deskins, Seth Tackett, Angel Bartley, Rachel Bishop, and Josh B. Justice. (top right) Aaron Smallwood works diligently on his own plan to "Save The Trees." (left) Sbrina Reed, working at the News-Express, puts her creativity to use, making several drawings for the paper.

"It's the end of the world as we know it, and we feel fine!"

The Seniors finished the year by spending time with their classmates. Some knew that this would be the last time they may see one another, so they planned picnics and brunches to add a few more memories to their high school careers. The majority of the time was spent eating, but the quality time was well spent. Because of the rain, the senior picnic was held under the weight room, but the seniors didn't let a little rain spoil their fun. They amused themselves by having water-gun fights, shoe polishing each other's cars, and listening to music in the gym. On graduation day, the Class of '97 gathered to eat breakfast with one another at the Landmark banquet room. Laughter rang out and tears were shed as students reminisced with a slide show and memorabilia table. These last few get-togethers would always be remembered with fond memories.

"Everybody Wants to Rule the World"

The Pikeville High School class of 1997 will be one of the most memorable classes to ever inhabit "these walls." Throughout their twelve years of education, they were the most dreaded class of all of the faculty and staff. They were said to have been immature and very disruptive.

All these accusations were forgotten on May 31, 1997, when the 94 graduating seniors stood on the auditorium stage with $1.2 million in scholarships and numerous awards. Kitty Branham and Courtney Lowe began the ceremonies with the Pledge of Allegiance, Sara Collins delivered the invocation, and Beka Norman welcomed parents and guests. Ami Bevins read the list of awards won by the seniors. Kati Rasnick and Mary Beth Beeler announced the scholarships.

The PHS chorus entertained with "Joyful Alleuia" and "I will Always Be With You," directed by Jerry Waddell. The PHS band performed "Majestia," directed by Dan Houston.

Tiffeny King introduced Katherine Wagner as the Salutatorian, and Lynn Justice introduced Philip Elswick as the Valedictorian.

The class farewell was given by class president, Laura Ruth Ford, which left few dry eyes. Amy Staten read the lyrics from the song "Everybody Wants to Rule the World" as the class charge. The closing Benediction was delivered by Vice-President, Nicole Trimble.

Work and Play, the Junior Way

Juniors added comic flavor to their school days in an attempt to have "one last fling" before stepping into the senior shoes. They realized in one short year it would be time to settle down to serious business - preparing for college. So enjoying this special year was a priority for them. They knew no matter what their futures held for them, they would always be kids at heart.

(bottom) Jessica Childers, Ashlie Sykes, and Sarah Deskins finally found books they could understand after a hard day in Ms. Baharestan's Honors English class.

Bad Boys, Bad Boys Whatcha Gonna Do?

The juniors realized as soon as the school year began that it wouldn't be long until they were "top dogs." They knew they had to enjoy their last year as underclassmen, but getting class rings, drivers license, and looking forward to prom only made them realize that next year they would be seniors.

As the year went by many memories were made to add to their high school years. They knew that one day they would reflect back and say that their junior year was a wonderful journey.

(top) "Hey James, I know they say girls can do anything boys can, but this is taking it a little too far!" exclaims Patrick Jeffreys of Sarah Deskins, Natalie Schnell, and Olivia Wallen.

"Yeah, we're no longer the new kids on the block, we actually feel like we fit in," several sophomores shared. Many agreed that their second year in high school was much more fun, more relaxing.

It was a time filled with new experiences and seemed more difficult, which in turn, required additional study time. But the 'biggie' for most sophomores was getting their driver's license. With the passage of a new law, 16-year-olds had to wait six months, as opposed to one, to take the driver's test after passing the written test.

Whatever challenges awaited the 100 plus sophomores, they met them with eagerness and anticipation.

It's All Worth It...

Amidst the initial confusion of changing classes and avoiding the rush of moving from one part of the building to another, the freshman class still found their first year in high school exciting. Yeah, they were forced to put up with jeers from upperclassmen and taunts about their status as "youngers." However, the ninth graders held their heads high and enjoyed the challenges that awaited them.

"Come on Beth, we only have to sell a few more," explains Amber Trimble.

"Look what I did guys!" exclaims Robert Trout to Jason Anderson, John Hall, and Mike Justice.

What's the worst thing about being a freshman?

- "Everyone thinks we're too young."
- "All of the old people pick on us."
- "We have no privileges and are always last about getting things."
- "The worst thing about being a freshman is the treatment that some of this year's senior girls gave us. Also, trying to get organized and used to the system."
- "Getting last pick at everything."
- "Being younger than everyone else."
- "The worst thing is being the smallest in the high school. We're also not used to having high school classes. Also, the most awful thing is having last pick."
- "Well, we're the rookies, and the seniors try to make us do stuff."
- "Being the youngest in high school activities."
- "We're pushed around, made fun of, and three years from graduating! Otherwise, life is good."

Panthers Pitching In

In a time when teenagers were often thought to be self-centered and shallow, National Honor Society defied the stereotype by striving to make the community better.

Membership in NHS was definitely an honor. Students were invited to join based on their grade level and GPA. The annual sophomore initiation week was a highlight of the year, as sophomore "slaves" proudly served their senior "masters."

"I was really proud of the club this year. I was glad to see everyone so eager to help," commented Sarah Blackburn, NHS President. NHS had one of the best years ever because everyone took time from their busy schedules and helped others. Students participated in programs such as Habitat for Humanity, the Coleman Oil Thanksgiving program, and the Adopt-a-Child for Christmas program. NHS members proved that students care about others and are willing to pitch in and help the community.

Let's Get Fired Up!!!

Colorful posters, chanting fans, and pepped up players were all signs that the PHS Pep Club was working hard to cheer all Panther teams to victory.

The members of Pep Club included the whole school in their activities. The famous PHS pep section was a result of the club's dedication. Another product of the clubs success was Homecoming 1996 "Change the World." It was known to be one of the best weeks of the year.

Pep Club supported all teams from football players to the Academic team members with gatorade after long practices and chocolate chip cookies to ease the "away game blues."

Sponsor Susan Huffman, along with Co-Presidents Courtney Lowe and Laura Ford, led the Pep Club as they worked to instill a sense of Panther Pride in PHS.

Homecoming Week

Homecoming week was definitely an exciting part of the voyage that all students at PHS traveled. The festivities started on Monday with the traditional "Twin Day." The more unusual competition on Tuesday, "Inside Out / Backwards Day," allowed students to use their imaginations. Halloween came early on Wednesday with "Costume Day." A sea of maroon and white flowed through the hallways on Thursday as students donned their school colors on "Spirit Day." Josh D. Justice was crowned Mr. Homecoming that afternoon before the student body at the annual Homecoming Pep Rally. The PHS marching band kicked off the 30-unit parade in downtown Pikeville.

Not only were the days filled with fun, but the nights were active, too. Twelve young men vied for the coveted Mr. Panther by competing in evening gown, casual wear, and interview categories. Brad Branham was announced the winner before a large audience. Students came together in the "Deck the Halls" hallway competition as each class chose a theme and decorated their hallways accordingly. "We've enjoyed this since we were freshmen," junior Jessica Childers said. "It's the only time we get together."

Change the World

"Change the World" was the theme of the magical Homecoming evening. Paper mache globes, glitter covered stars, silver, royal blue, and emerald streamers, and a balloon archway transformed the commons area into an enchanted ballroom. Queen Stacy Rose and King Josh Justice lead the Homecoming court in the dance. Everyone agreed that the memories of Homecoming would live in the hearts of PHS students forever.

Together We Stand

A new enthusiasm came to the PHS Co-Ed-Y in 1996-1997, with a rebirth of student interest in the club.

With a record number of members, Co-Ed-Y, sponsored by Vernon Hampton, attended KYA, which is a mock legislative conference, in November. Sarah Blackburn won an Outstanding Speaker award at the conference.

Members of the club enjoyed learning about Kentucky's government, while having fun traveling and getting to know each other.

With the rise of interest in Co-Ed-Y, the club anticipates many successful years to follow.

Leaders of the Pack

During the everyday hum-drum that students went through, Student Council was determined to initiate changes that would make PHS more interesting. To be members of the council, students were elected by their classmates. This elite group of students may have taken their positions very seriously, but they never forgot to have fun.

The Student Council sponsored many events, like the Varsity Dance, the Pike Co. Mock Disaster Drill, and the first Lunchroom Workers Appreciation Day where Student Council exchanged places with lunchroom workers, giving them a day off.

PHS's Student Council was a club bonded by duties as well as very close friendships. The group became better acquainted through such activities as the annual scavenger hunt and the Christmas party.

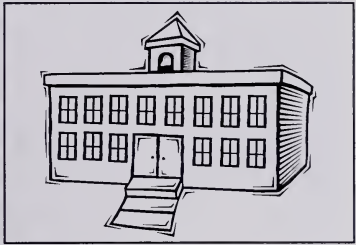

Student Council always tried to look to the positives of everyday life. Nicole Trimble, president, reflected on the year, "We made some positive changes in the community and our school, and had a lot fun."

Varsity Dance

Streamers, balloons, disco globes, fancy dresses? Not this time! The 1997 Varsity Dance was not the typical Pikeville High School affair. On February 15, after the PHS vs. Betsy Layne game, students 9-12 dressed in casual clothes filled the Commons Area. The casual atmosphere of the dance was the perfect setting for disco dancing, macarena, and the train. Lead by the 1997 Varsity Queen, Kitty Branham, the students crowded the dance floor and broke it down to the latest songs.

Brad Branham and Vanessa Lester take time from dancing to play a quick game of twister.

"Don't let others look down on you because you are young, but set an example for others in faith, in life, and in purity."

I Timothy 4:12

During the second week in July 1996, under the hot Georgia sun, members of the PHS Fellowship of Christian Athletes were found playing sports, walking on the beach, and participating in devotionals in a small chapel. FCA members traveled hundreds of miles to St. Simon's Island, Georgia, where they attended Leadership Camp. In the midst of a place many called "Heaven on Earth," members pledged life-changing commitments.

Those commitments were the foundation the club was based on. Team prayers, devotions, and picnics were activities many members cherished. With a strong commitment to their fellow students and Jesus Christ, FCA set an example for others.

Break A Leg

The old saying "Quality is more important than quantity," applied to the Speech and Drama team of 1996-1997. The club, although few in members, was filled with talent and aspirations.

The common goal of the group was simple: to proudly display the talent of PHS at the State Competition. The goal, however, was not easily achieved. Members resounded their pieces over and over during the long hours of pre-competition practice. The sponsor, Tonya Hampton, stalwartly stood behind the group who presented prose, poetry, and declamation to the judges.

PHS was extremely proud of the small group of students who made a large display of the talent Pikeville had to offer.

Kati Rasnick and Praveen Mettu must have gone trick-or-treating. But guys, where's your candy?

The excitement of the theatre came to PHS as students were educated in culture and humanities. The gifted members of the Drama Club provided for others an experience unfamiliar to many teenagers today - a glimpse into the world of the arts.

Members not only starred in the plays they selected, but they also worked behind the scenes with props and makeup. However, working in front of a crowd was not the only limelight shown upon the drama club. The club participated in radio broadcasts and worked hand in hand with the Pike Co. Tourism Department on public relations events.

The talent of many PHS students was proudly showcased by the drama club, who in their first year interested many students in the arts and brought into the light a world of theatre.

Before the Curtain Rises

Many people were responsible for the success of Mr. Scrooge, but not all of them remained on stage. Talented people were chosen to compile music, props, sets, lighting, sound, hair, make-up, and directing into one huge performance.

Painting the Scene

New clubs often struggle to make an impact. The Art Club, however, opened its first year by adding a splash of color to PHS's white canvas.

Establishing a worthy reputation around the school was no easy task. The club tackled the obstacles by working throughout PHS and the community to add enthusiasm to the lives of people in the hospital and the nursing home. Members accomplished this goal by creating Christmas cards and valentines for the patients.

The club, composed of art class students, also created the scenery for drama club events, such as Mr. Scrooge. Under the leadership of Paula Smith, art teacher and club sponsor, members hammered, painted, and created new "canvases" at PHS.

Long days of studying were sparked by a festive air for members of the Spanish Club. The club, composed of advanced Spanish II and Spanish III students, found many reasons for celebrating. Students enjoyed Dia de Los Muertos (the day of the dead) and Cinco de Mayo (May 5, Independence Day) by throwing fiestas in honor of the holidays. They not only cooked delicious Spanish dishes for the parties, but they also decorated the room with colorful pinatas, sombreros, and posters.

The festivities spanned from Pikeville to Richmond as the Spanish Club traveled to watch a production of Don Quiote.

Due to a sudden interest by the student body and the Espanol teacher, Senora Leisure, the members rebuilt a club which was full of celebration.

That's What Friends Are For

The Senior class has always helped one another in times of need, but this year a select group of seniors lent support to the entire school by tutoring students in writing.

The writing team spent several hours in training at the beginning of the year in order to critique other student's work. This training enabled them to analyze work without infringing on the creativity of the student.

Thanks to the Senior Writing Team, who gave up their time to help others, students at PHS received help from many friendly faces.

Sarah Bartley and Airen Wallen practiced for their debut in the Boston Phil Harmonic.

Senior Band Members are Eric Whitaker, Lynn Justice, Billie Jean Sanders, Dana Hall.

About Face, Forward March

As the colorful flags wisped through the air and the shiny brass instruments dawned the night, the Panther band put on a show once again for the fans awaiting to cheer them on.

Between competitions and practices, the band supported the Panther teams to a number of victories. From football to basketball games, comments were heard throughout the crowd about the superb PHS musicians.

The band not only aided Pikeville's athletics but also provided music for Mr. Scrooge and other drama events.

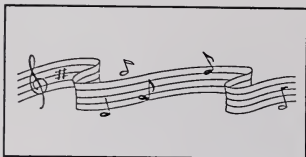

The everyday, normal PHS activities were jazzed up by the band's exciting melodies and supportive attitudes.

Song Birds

With heads raised, eyes focused, and mouths open, the Pikeville High School chorus made an impact like never before on students, teachers, and the community. The respectable status of the PHS chorus, which consisted of high school and Jr. high students, could not have been achieved without the leadership of Jerry Waddell. With their new leader standing behind the podium, the chorus made its way through many performances, such as the Spring and Christmas shows, talent show and graduation ceremony.

However, not all performances were at PHS. Pikeville High School was also well represented by the students who went on to sing in the All-State Chorus show.

Whether uniting their voices together or going solo, the students that made up the Pikeville High School chorus clearly showed immense amounts of talent and togetherness.

Beating the Buzz

The moderator slowly uttered the question and immediately the brilliant young minds of Pikeville High School's Academic Team sprang into action as they quickly buzzed in with the correct answer. This seemed to be the normal scenario as the team completed yet another successful year.

The club not only competed in quick recall, but also English Composition, Future Problem Solving, General Knowledge, and many other difficult events. Beverly Thacker, sponsor of the club, proudly lead the team through a winning season with awards from the All "A" Tournament, District Competition, and Regional Tournament.

The Academic Team proudly displayed the honor and success PHS worked hard to obtain throughout past years.

Wonderful Tonight

"Yes, I feel wonderful tonight....I feel wonderful because I see the love shining in your eyes and the wonder of it all is that you just don't realize how much I love you."

The 1997 Jr./Sr. Prom, which was held May 2 at the Mark II, definitely was "Wonderful Tonight." Coordinated by the Juniors, the evening was filled with many magical memories. Fast and slow songs alike, the students stayed on the dance floor all night. The exciting evening, marked by spectacular dresses and dazzling tuxedos, was highlighted by the crowning of Prom Queen, Beka Norman, and Prom King, Evan Justice.

The end of the dance was not nearly the end of the evening. Many students attended Project Prom where they gambled, drew, and guessed their way to big Project Prom bucks, which they spent on a variety of prizes. The main events in the early morning hours were the talent show and Mr. Project Prom pageant. The students who chose to battle sleep and stay through the night were definitely entertained. The evening of May 2, 1997, filled with laughter, love, and memories, will never be forgotten.

"Watch out," says Rebecca Mims to her sweetheart Aaron Smallwood, "You never know what Jessica might have slipped into your drink."

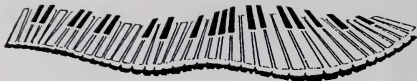

Todd McCoy quickly pulls his hand away, when Michael Corbin catches him trying to feel Sarah Charles' silky, smooth legs.

"I know I'm a good dancer, but you don't need to applaud," exclaims Kitty Branham to Tamara Johnson.

Janice Runyon and Megan Thacker enthusiastically cheer on Aaron Miller and Brandon Hayton as they finish the final round of the annual National Stare Off competition.

Star Search

From behind the scenes at PHS emerged several new stars destined for Broadway. On May 21, 1997, 15 of PHS's most promising faces donned the stage displaying their special talents for the students and faculty in the annual talent show.

A variety of talent was shown through singing, dancing, and acting. The show was a lot of fun for both the participants and the audience and was dubbed "The Best Talent Show Ever."

Although all participants did an excellent job, Whiskered Bisquits (Jason England, Robbie Adkins, C.T. Branham, and Jeremy Chaney) placed third, Elvis (C.T. Branham) achieved second place, and Tynisa "Sugar" Habern won the honor of first place.

(top) Brian Sohn is shocked when he sees what happened to Brad Branham after a bad day at the beauty salon.

(center) Tynisa Habern, Laura Ford, and the members of Whiskered Bisquits join forces to stun the audience with their version of "Proud Mary."

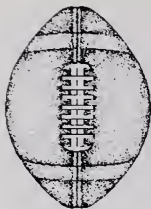

PHS students got another shock with the appearance of C.T. "Elvis" Branham.

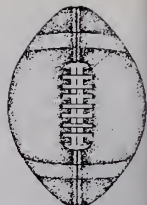

When her friends told her to "sing it," Michelle Hall did just that and displayed her talent.

LOCKED, COCKED, AND READY TO ROCK!

The mighty Panther football team was back this year, better than ever. Getting off to a rocky start, they lost their first game in the Pike County Bowl to a tough Bardstown team, but these boys didn't give up easily. The Panthers came back and conquered, finishing with an 11-3 record. Under the guidance of first year head coach, Royce Mayo, the team once again showed their perseverance in their game against Lynn Camp. With a score of 20-0 at half time, the Panthers made a history come back, winning the game 43-20. Next year, the Panthers hope to return again locked, cocked, and ready to ROCK!

Under the guidance of coach Lyle Blackburn, the PHS golf team enjoyed a very competitive season. Playing some of the best teams in the state gave them a chance to reach their highest potential, as well as provide them with the opportunity to overcome their youth and inexperience. "Being so young, our team will be more competitive next year; we don't lose anyone," reflected junior Matt Robinson. Placing 5th in the PIT and 4th in Regionals, the team was very pleased with their performance.

RUNNING TO VICTORY

The 1996 Cross Country team had an outstanding year. "When this team first started the year, they set their goals for the state tournament. Through hard work and determination, they reached their goals and were triumphant," said Coach Libby White. Both teams placed 3rd at Regionals, 2nd at the Allen Central Invitational, and 2nd at the Riverside Invitational. Also, Brad Branham set the course record at Dewey Lake at 19:38.

Footprints have definitely been left in Panther history by the 1996-97 Boys' Varsity Basketball Team. By downing Shelby Valley 70-68 in overtime, the team, coached by Dave Thomas, became district champs. This is the first time since 1958-60 that Pikeville has won three consecutive 59th District titles. After losing to Painstville in the Regional Tournament, the Panthers proudly ended their season with a 19-12 record.

TUFF STUFF

Connie Mullins (#24) dodges Millard's tough defense to score two points.

The Lady Panthers, improving year after year, gave an outstanding performance during the 1996-97 season. Coached by Maria Shockey, the girls returned three starters and two seniors, Connie Mullins and foreign exchange student Ivana Koprivica from Yugoslavia. The Lady Panthers advanced to the Regional tournament after beating the Millard Mustangs 64-62 in two nerve-wrecking overtimes in the semifinals of the 59th District Tournament.

GIMME A "P"!!!

This number one squad overflows with joy after winning the WYMT Classic.

Being a relatively young squad, the 1996-97 Boys' Varsity Cheerleading Squad included only one senior and a total of fourteen freshmen and sophomores. Coach Jeannie Stone stated, "These young ladies have surpassed their expectations in almost every area, and they were able to do that because they are very talented, but more importantly, they were hard workers."

PUMP IT UP!!

With spirit and enthusiasm, the 1996-97 Girls' Varsity Cheerleaders completed a very successful season. They cheered their way through many tough competitions. This young team, coached by Lisa Wheeler, overcame many set backs, yet they still continued their quest for excellence. Some of their victories included U.K. Camp Champions, King's Island Finalists, UCA Bluegrass Regional Champions, UCA National Finalists, Class A State Champions, 59th District Tournament Champions, and 15th Regional Tournament Champions. The Girls' Varsity Cheerleaders believed their hard work paid off. If you work hard and always give 110%, you can never really lose.

Take Me Out To The Ballgame!!

Eric Stepp strategically misses a close call as he safely slides into the base.

Being the last year for Dave Thomas as head coach, the team sent him out with a bang. Finishing with a 21-13 record, the 1996-97 PHS Baseball team won the district title. Advancing to the regional tournament, the boys made it to the semifinals, being beat out by Betsy Layne. "These are a great group of boys. They did a wonderful job considering we lost seven starters last year," commented Coach Thomas.

A sad farewell was given to Coach Thomas as he stepped down from the position as baseball coach to focus on basketball. He coached a victorious ten years, winning nine out of ten 59th District tournaments and three straight 15th Regional tournaments. He is now recognized as the coach with the most wins in Pikeville baseball history with a record of 232-127. Congratulations to Coach Dave Thomas and the 1996-97 PHS Baseball team.

Seniors Clark Batten, Eric Stepp, and Derek Vliegenthart, hold their heads high while proudly showing their trophy given to them after winning the 59th District tournament.

Shannon Potter gives a look of determination as he rears back to throw the ball.

Josh Shofner is ready to show what he's got as he prepares to pitch the ball.

"Don't even try to get past me," warns Ben Howard as he tags his opponent.

The strain on Clark Batten's face shows he always gives 100% to his team.

Hit 'em Hard

In pitching, batting, and throwing, the 1996-97 PHS Girls' Softball team had what it took to become district champs for the 4th consecutive year. Then, advancing on to the regional tournament, they won a third straight title by beating Shelby Valley in the championship game.

Coached by Jon Stratton, the team ended the season with a 23-10 record. "It's better than I thought it would be. I think that I enjoyed this one (regional championship) more than I did last year. The first one was real good, and last year's title was expected, but this one felt real good when it was over. It was a real good accomplishment to finish my career with three regional titles and 60 consecutive wins. I feel real proud of it," said Jon Stratton, commenting on his last year as head coach. Being able to play in the state tournament, the girls were very proud of their accomplishments.

"I hope you're ready for this one," thinks Beka Norman (#10) as she steps up to the plate.

Mary Beth Beeler (#4) throws one of her mean pitches to strike out her opponent.

"Gotcha!" shouts Emily Johnson (#00) as she tags her opponent.

Sam Narra (#14) gets into position as she tries to escape the third baseman.

Owensboro Bound

On Wednesday, June 4th, an ambitious girls' softball team headed for Owensboro with a mission. Though it would be nice to win overall, the girls' goal was to win one game at state. The last two years at the state tournament, the Lady Panthers suffered heartache by losing all four games. Thursday night, at Owensboro's Panther Creek Park, Pikeville entered a loser's bracket game against Bell County. Having lost earlier in the day against Louisville Dupont Manual 9-1, the girls were determined to win this game. Mission accomplished. The Lady Panthers beat 13th Region champ Bell County 5-3 to win their first ever state tournament game. Even though the team was eliminated 4-3 later in the night by Henderson County, the players were proud of their previous victory.

Game, Set, Match!

The 1996-97 Pikeville High School tennis team had a very challenging, but successful season. The team included five strong seniors who helped carry them through their many victories. Among those seniors was Jason England who was awarded a tennis scholarship to Pikeville College. Coached by Francis Coleman and Dan Houston, these players worked their way to the regional meet. Advancing to the state tournament was freshman Tabatha Beach. With much potential, the team anticipates the upcoming years.

Out With the Old

This year was an exciting time for the eighth grade. Not only did they enjoy being the oldest of the Jr. High, they also enjoyed being the first class to occupy the new addition to the school. The students also looked forward to the eighth grade dance, as well as graduation. However, they slowly realized that it was all about to change...

In With the New

As eighth graders anticipate their move into high school, they could only imagine what lay ahead - a more rigorous schedule with upperclassmen, rushing to secure a seat in the commons area for lunch, new clubs, and high school dances. They realized it would be difficult to face those new challenges, being the "low man on the totem pole," so to speak. However, they were confident their experiences in junior high would make the transition an easy one.

I Will Always Be With You

On May 29, 1997, the Eighth grade class marched to "Pomp and Circumstance" into the auditorium to mark a significant change in their lives. The seats were filled with friends and family who awaited to see the class make the transition from junior high to high school.

Several students participated in the ceremony. Jessica King led the audience and class in honoring the flag. The invocation was given by Elizabeth Hickman. The class poem was read by the author, Tannee Johnson, and the junior high chorus sang "I Will Always Be With You."

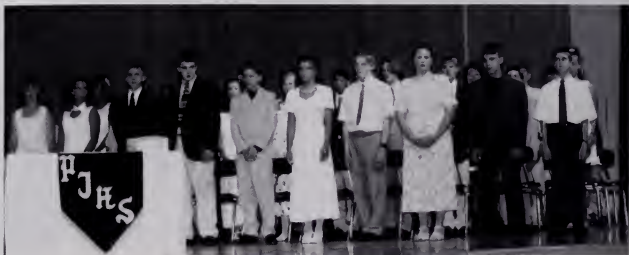

Members of the faculty presented academic awards and honors, and the counselor, Jon Stratton, presented the top ten students. The valedictorian, Jill Kimberlain, and the salutatorians, Pradeep Mettu and Lucy Lee Wachs, encouraged the classmates to look back on the memories, but to also look forward to a successful future.

Members of the Pikeville Independent Board of Education, along with 8th grade teachers and Representative Herbie Deskins, presented the class with diplomas. The ceremony was closed by Sarah Hobbs who gave the benediction.

"For You I Will"

The festivities of May 29 did not end with graduation. The eighth graders celebrated throughout the night at the graduation dance. Surrounded by beautiful teal, purple, and silver decorations, the graduates crowded the dance floor, stuffed themselves with delicious food from the buffet, and honored the 1997 eighth grade court. Prince and Princess, Matt Branham and Lucy Lee Wachs, led the court in dancing to "For You I Will."

A large part of growing up is learning to do things that are expected of adults. Often times, this transition is rough. However, the seventh grade teachers made sure their students were well prepared. Whether it was learning to do laundry, cooking, or making good buying decisions, the seventh grade curriculum provided many ways for students to learn those skills.

Intimidated? No, Not Us!

Seventh grade - a time of immense uncertainty to a 12-year-old. Unlike sixth grade where they were the oldest and most experienced, they become the youngest and most inexperienced. Why, with seemingly endless hallways, classrooms that were impossible to find, and those crazy lockers with their bizarre combinations, it was enough to drive anyone insane. However, the seventh graders persevered, and demonstrated that they will one day be the intimidating seniors they so revere.

(top) Don Paul Branham, Robby Ray, Roman Justice, and Barrett Rogers diligently worked on their escape plan from Mrs. Taylor's room.

'Tis the Season...

The 1996 Junior High Christmas Dance proved to be an enchanting evening for all who attended. The annual dance was held on December 14 in the new Jr. High Commons Area. The dance floor was turned into a winter wonderland with white trees and clear lights, which made the evening truly magical. Thanks to the chaperones, Mrs. Wheeler, and the Junior High Pep Club, the 1996 Christmas Dance was definitely a night to remember.

Spreading the Spirit

Lead by their sponsor, Lisa Wheeler, the Junior High Pep Club learned the true meaning of PJHS Panther spirit. Simply by walking down the Junior High hallway one could see that the 7th and 8th grade girls definitely kept busy. The evidence was on the colorfully decorated lockers and the goodie bags inside. The support not only sped through the hall, but also to lunch as they treated athletes to snacks. The club's attitude must have made an impact because their efforts cheered the Junior High teams to successful seasons.

Ready for Action

Friends, fun, and fellowship were always signs a Jr. High Fellowship of Christian Athletes meeting was taking place. Influenced by the high school FCA, students in grades 6-8 were eager to jump in and take action.

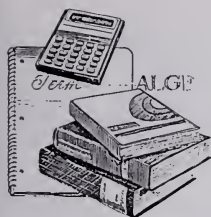

As the club grew with each meeting, more students were exposed to the FCA mission: "To present to athletes and coaches, and all who they influence, the challenge and adventure of receiving Jesus Christ as Savior and Lord, serving him in their relationships and in the fellowship of the church."

FREE YOUR MINDS

Most students thought six and a half hours a day behind a desk was exhausting. However, as the bell rang signaling the end of the day a select group of students began another important part of their day.

The Jr. High Academic Team practiced for hours in categories such as future problem solving, quick recall, and general knowledge. They prepared for difficult meets such as District, Region, and State Tournament. Some students were known to do it all - attend school, complete homework, practice for athletics, and participate in clubs. The Jr. High Academic Team members were no exception, they conquered the impossible.

Practice Makes Perfect

Long afternoons of practice, grueling competitions, and nervous participants ... this not only described the Panther athletic department but also the group of hard working students known as the Junior High Speech and Drama Club. Seventh and eighth graders were invited to join the club sponsored by Robin Walters. Members quickly learned what it took to be an avid participant, and diligently worked hard in various genres such as poetry, duo, and prose. The season's highlight came with the largest competition of the year held in Lexington. The 1996-1997 team can look back on the season and the lessons they learned: pride, patience, and perfection.

Young Einsteins

They can be found gazing into the night sky, experimenting with chemicals and formulas, or studying how things work. They are not chemical engineers, nor labworkers. They are members of the Jr. High Science Club, "The Odyssey."

Odyssey members began their club with an exciting interest in science coupled with an enthusiastic teacher and sponsor, Jane Amos. On Tuesdays and Thursdays after school, the students quickly filled the 8th grade science room and began various experiments, such as testing starches, making atom models, and growing bacteria.

The Odyssey was such a success, members worked to bring a version of the club to the high school.

GAINING GROUND

Barret Rogers (#31) receives a handoff from Matt Branham (#15).

The Junior High Football Team had an outstanding season. Jimmy Newsome successfully guided them through his first season as coach. With high hopes, he encouraged these young, talented Panthers to do their best. In order to reach their peak performance, the team had extensive practices and pushed themselves to the limit. They reached the goals they had set for themselves through hard work and dedication. Playing a total of eleven games, the team was very pleased to end the season with an 8-3 record.

Sweet and Sassy

Most girls are made of sugar and spice. The ingredients that go into the junior high girls basketball team also include ambition, dedication, and a large portion of sass. These girls used their experiences to become runners-up in the area and county tournaments. "Because we have worked with each other for so many years, it was as if we knew where everyone was on the court, every minute of the game," explained eighth grader Stephanie Kelly. The 1996 Pikeville Junior High girls, coached by Karissa Porter, ended the season more than content with their performance.

Look out varsity players, the junior high boys are movin' on up! With a 19-7 record, they knew how to rock the basketball court. Through much practice and dedication, they superbly conquered the techniques of passing, shooting, and guarding. With many triumphant victories, such as narrowly escaping Martin Middle School 61-60 in two overtimes, the team proved their skills.

Cheer Power

The 1996-97 Jr. High Cheerleaders showed their "sassy stuff" throughout their entire season. From football to basketball, they put forth great effort in raising the crowd's enthusiasm and the players' confidence.

Coached by Lisa Wheeler, their accomplishments included U.K. Camp Champions, Kings Island Finalists, UCA Bluegrass Regional Champions, UCA National Finalists, Class A State Champions, 59th District Tournament Champions, and 15th Regional Tournament Champions. With much pride, the girls finished the season with hopes of being just as successful in years to come.

MOVIN' RIGHT ALONG

Sixth grade offered many new and exciting learning experiences. They were kept occupied with their busy schedules and studying. However, they always managed to find time to have a little fun. The 6th graders soon realized that school could be hard, but enjoyable as well.

Their thoughts often wondered to what awaited them in junior high. Dances, a new environment, and a different class schedule were a few things they looked forward to. On the other hand, the loss of their status as "big man on campus," recess time, and the fear of never being able to remember their locker combinations were a few of the things they dreaded.

As they grow older and move forward in life they will one day look back with pleasing eyes and much pride at their many great accomplishments in elementary school.

BOSOM BUDDIES

Josh Jones, James Adkins, Luke Blackburn, and Keith Starnes goof off in the hall, showing their classmates what "fun" really is.

Nearing the end of their years at Pikeville Elementary, the 6th graders faced many mixed emotions. They desperately wanted to hang on to the times they had shared, yet anticipated the new challenges facing them.

One thing they knew would never change, however, was their special friendships. The bonds they had formed throughout their grade school years were something they would never forget. Whether it was clowning around in the hallways, passing secret notes to their best pal, or sharing future dreams on the playground, they realized that "bosom buddies" stick together through thick and thin.

"..and they lived happily ever after," wrote Erin Hensley and Jessica Coleman.

Achievement in Academics

This past year was a trying time for many fifth graders. Instead of the hands-on projects they were used to, they did more book work on an independent basis. The classes they took ranged from math to English and from spelling to science. Consequently, many of the students called upon their teachers for help.

So there they were, at the student's beck and call, ready to assist in any way possible. With guidance and support, the fifth graders were able to breathe a sigh of relief when they got their papers back.

All the hard work they endured prepared them for the following year. Even though many times they weren't happy with their assignments given to them, they will be when they walk through the doors at Pikeville Elementary School next year as the big sixth graders.

A Friend is a Friend Forever

Friendships are special treasures many fifth graders shared. Some began way back in kindergarten and matured through the years. Even though their interests were varied, they still enjoyed many common activities.

Some of them did homework and studied together, while others hung out and enjoyed each others company. One group of seven girls had this to say:

"We talk, laugh, hug, and make faces," they giggled. "We study together, play, have sleepovers, and sing," they continued. "We even talk to Shea' Shea' Burchett, our imaginary friend."

The guys, on the other hand, were more relaxed. They were eager to help each other with homework and play games on the computer during free time.

Whether the fifth graders spent their time doing homework or hanging out, it didn't seem to matter. As long as it was together----- forever friends.

Storytime?

"Boys and girls, get your mats out; it's storytime," the teacher said. Kindergarten....it used to be so easy. Then she grabbed a chair, sat down, and read their favorite stories. Well, for 4th graders it's not that easy any more.

Now they must read books on their own. Afterwards, they follow up with book projects and oral presentations. Yes, times have changed.

If You Can't Run With The Big Dogs, Stay in Upper Primary!

Along with being a fourth grader came the privilege of being one of the "big dogs." They had finally moved from upper primary and separated from the "youngers." The fourth graders became genuine elementary students. Being a

"big dog" had its advantages. Because they were "older and wiser," the younger kids appeared to be intimidated by them. The fourth graders were often seen by others as bullies, but they felt that was too harsh a word. Instead, they referred to themselves as the "big dogs!"

Upper Primary

Upper primary students enjoyed many new experiences. They were finally "big enough" to tackle the "tougher" assignments - reading logs, adding and subtracting three-digit numbers, spelling longer words, composing open-ended response questions, and writing in cursive.

Their social time was also an important part of their development. Field trips to the fire department, police department, school plays, as well as class parties for occasions such as Halloween, Christmas, and Valentine's Day, provided educational fun and laughter.

Whatever experiences these students encountered, they met them with anticipation, eager to fill their minds with new knowledge.

Lucy Scott and her gang, Kelly Rowe, Cara Hall, Tiffany Combs, Robert Lester, Chaz Bartley, Bryce Puckett, Jordan Moore, Max Lester, Dusty Patton, and Seth Batten prove that they rule the school.

Let's Hear It For The Boys!

It could be easily agreed to that the friendships formed in elementary school are those that last forever. To young boys, their buddies meant everything. They were one another's playmates, trustworthy sidekicks, partners in exploration, as well as partners in crime. No matter where life's voyages took them, whether together or apart, they knew for certain that they would always have a special place in each other's memories and hearts.

"Hurry up guys," urges Chris Olson as David Hatcher, Max Smith, and C.D. Johnson help him look for his lost contact lens.

Chris White, Matthew Huffman, Will Lockhart, Nick Spicocchi, Seth Batten, Max Lester, Bryce Puckett, Jordan Bryant, Chase Childers, Stephen Vance, and Aaron Stanley learn about togetherness and friendship from Cub Scouts.

On The Road Again...

The fire station may be exciting, but what everyone really wants to know is, "Where's Spot?"

The upper primary kept the roads of Pikeville burning hot this year! They took many educational, as well as enjoyable, field trips to places like the fire department, the police station, and even McDonald's. They learned fire tips from Smokey the Bear, "street smarts" from the police officers, and became experts on the "Buddy System." The attitudes of these road-running kids could best be summed up in the famous words of Willie Nelson, "On the road again, I just can't wait to get on the road again."

Max Lester, Matthew Huffman, and John Michael Mayo ask with pleading eyes, "Mom! Can we keep him?"

Goblins and Ghouls

The Halloween season is an exciting time for lower primary students. Anticipation filled their faces as they made plans for the Halloween party, prepared trick-or-treats in art class, and last, but not least, dressed up in those hair-raising costumes and paraded around the school visiting their peers. After they finished their show, they pulled on their coats and backpacks to head for home, where a long night of candy-filled trick-or-treating awaited them. Lower primary students often wished they could celebrate Halloween year round.

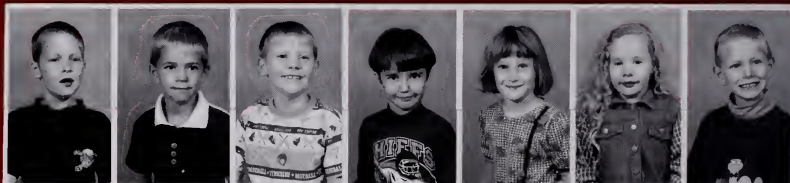

"Yea! I've got all the guys," Sarah Davis thinks to herself as John Bishop, Luke Huffman, and Jesse Hager try to impress her with their artistic abilities.

Devin Burchett and Bradley Coffey think that if they cut out skeletons to scare the girls they will come running for protection from the many lower primary boys.

YES! It's STORYTIME!

Each week lower primary students looked forward to their "Book It" session. Once a week a parent of a lower primary student came to share a story with the kids. "Book It" time was the highlight of the week for these young, energetic children. But on those sad, lonely days when a parent didn't come, the boys and girls were satisfied reading to each other. But who can blame them? Everyone needed a break from school work sometimes.

"Book It!" exclaims Leigh Ann Branham as she reads to Mrs. Wilson's class.

"Alexandria, my friend, some day we will live in a place like that," Elizabeth Lee says to Alexandria Edwards with hope as Kelli Kerr and Bobbi Belcher beg to differ.

ABC'S AND 123'S

Reading, writing, and arithmetic were subjects these young, bright minds were exposed to on their journey through the lower primary grades. The days were filled with the challenges of new words, numbers, and letters. These children were excited about learning, however, when the bell rang, signaling the end of the day, they were anxious to get home and relax their overworked minds.

Tara Jo Sword and Erica Nichols entertain themselves by punching phone numbers into their calculators.

"I hope he doesn't tell on me for flooding the bathroom," Will Ratliff thinks to himself as Dion Manica says, "I didn't do it!"

Whiz Kids

The Pikeville Elementary School academic team completed a successful year. Working hard after school and studying long hours, this elite group of smart little Panthers made our school proud by representing Pikeville Elementary School well.

While they did not compete in any regular season meets, they did go to the District and Regional Tournaments. Coached by Susan Whitaker, the students worked diligently to win both competitions.

Charla Hughes-2nd place; General Knowledge

Eric Johnson-3rd place; Language Arts

Tyler Shockey-3rd place; Social Studies

The team also won 1st place in Quick Recall Competition.

Special Olympics

The Special Olympics competition was an opportunity for mentally and physically handicapped students to compete in athletic competitions.

Engaging in sports and fitness programs helped the student's chances of future employment because strength, speed, endurance, fine motor ability, and general energy levels are increased.

Also, by using volunteers from Pikeville High School, integration between peers with and without disabilities was achieved.

Held at the Shelby Valley High School track, and with over 200 participants, this year's Special Olympics competition was truly a great success!

Well, after countless nights of "camping out" in the journalism room, our "Fantastic Voyage" has finally come to an end. It has been an honor and a privilege to be co-editor of such a wonderful staff. At the beginning of the year I was a bit skeptical because Nicole and I were the only returning staff members. This staff truly amazed me by their hard work and determination, and it didn't take long for us to create lasting friendships between one another.

A special thanks goes out to all the individuals who helped in the production of the book ... the high school and elementary teachers who didn't complain when we took kids out of class for a "quick" picture, Coach Howard and Mr. Shely for their support, Sandra Branham and Tonya Hampton for their help through the office, Tynasa Habern for putting a smile on our face during journalism class, the staff itself for working so hard and helping each other out, and last, but not least, Ms. Huffman for always being so kind, patient, and asking us if we "need anything."

I hope that this book brings as much joy to the students who read it as it has brought me helping to produce it. When we look back twenty or thirty years from now, we'll see what a "Fantastic Voyage" it really was.

Courtney E. Love ♡

With a sign of relief and satisfaction, I bring the 1997 Panther to a close. I can't help but smile when I think of all that we've gone through to get to this point. As co-editor, I must say that this year has been challenging, frustrating, and often stressful, but above all, it has been very rewarding. The beginning of the year was filled with fears, but the completely new staff - eager, yet unexperienced - quickly put my fears to rest. And shortly after the year started, they were no longer staff members, but friends. I'm really glad that we all got to be so close, aren't you Jessica?

Along with the hard work of the staff, countless others contributed to the completion of the book. The teachers at the elementary school and the high school were always willing to let us borrow students for pictures, the secretaries in the office were helpful whenever we needed questions answered or anything, and we are extremely grateful to them. Tynasa Habern provided the much needed comic relief with her hilarious renditions of the infamous "Do you need anything?" and "Do you need by?" Deserving the most thanks by far is Ms. Huffman, who we now consider as not only a wonderful sponsor, but a great friend.

As you look through the book, I hope that you will not only enjoy it, but appreciate all the hard work that the staff put into its production. And as sad as it is that our "Fantastic Voyage" has finally reached its end, I will always be able to reflect back in satisfaction of the book and the many memories that the staff created.
